Prof. George Matthew Global Health Issue Event Preview

Prof. George Matthew, Executive Dean of Faculty of Medicine and Health Sciences

On December 2-4, 2015, UPH will host an international conference discussing the global health issues from Christian perspectives, which is "Christian Responses to Global Health Issue". This international conference is held on collaboration along with Medical Science Group, UPH and Biola University, USA. This conference is a multidisciplinary discourse which involves doctors, nurses, and healthcare professionals as well as students to engage and discuss the global health issues holistically as the Christ involving the work of redemption and healing.

The global health issues are crucial in the recent world. Despite of advances in science and technology that are improving, world has not turned into healthier place. This is due to a lot of diseases evolving and the world begins to realize that the health is a result of many components. Health is not just an individual component; it is necessary that we address health as a whole, alongside the holistic appreciation of considering all factors that affect body, mind, and spirit.

This is such a critical issue for healthcare professionals to discern. Thus, this conference points to the impact of economic disadvantages, lack of communication, the role of education, and the prevention as well as the importance of mental health. This is why the conference asserts the importance of holistic approach as the result of transforming and altering the whole person starting from physical, mental, and spiritual. The world needs to grasp the crucial concept that Christian healthcare is not merely concerned about the physical, but also the healing of the mind and spirit.

UPH as a Christian educational institution needs to be responsive to this issue since UPH, especially Faculty of Medicine and Nursing, trains and teaches the students to be healers rather than merely curers. It is necessary that all healthcare profession be aware of the concept of the need in becoming healers of people, who are called to care for a person holistically and for Christians, this can be performed though conviction and faith in Christ.

The teaching of the Bible for Christians gives vision of how person can make a change holistically through the care for humans, the pain and suffering. Christians need to cope with the impact of the diseases destroying not only humans' body but individual as a whole.

One of the objectives of the conference is to engage all participants to have a common understanding in regard to the holistic healing. The conference will invite representatives from various countries in Asia and Africa, as well as England, United States, Australia, Hong Kong, and Taiwan. Besides, various Christian institutions and national educational institutions will also be invited. We also focus on encouraging the students of Medicine and Nursing to ponder more deeply on their calling. This conference is also opened for public.

The topics that is about to be addressed in this conference comprises: Christians response to medical care in the midst of constrained resource and challenges in economical environment, Christians response to emerging Global Health issues, Christians response to developing technology and treatment, and Christian response to incurable disease, pain, and dying. For further information, access www.livingfortruth.org.

Through the conference, we look forward to developing a forum to address global health issues holistically while serving Christ.

- EDITORIAL -

During the academic year of 2015/2016 Universitas Pelita Harapan set the theme “Grow Deeper” as the focus in the teaching-learning activities as well as all university programs. This theme continues to be delivered so that the entire family of YPPH (Yayasan Pendidikan Pelita Harapan) is able to discern and nourish it. We are grateful for God’s grace that the service of YPPH can reach various remote areas in Indonesia. Nevertheless, UPH, which is located in three regions in Indonesia: Jakarta, Surabaya, and Medan, continues to produce the best in various aspects, both at the national and international level. Nonetheless, do not get carried away by praise, but we should be more rooted in and built up in Christ so as to stand firm and not to deviate from the vision and mission of YPPH. Happy Reading!

RECTOR REFLECTION

Rooted in Christ, Built up in Christ

Dr. (Hon) Jonathan L. Parapak, M.Eng.Sc. – Rector of UPH

We are thankful because of God’s grace, Yayasan Pelita Harapan has been reaching out various regions in our beloved country, up to the remote areas such as Mamit in Papua. God uses us to be blessings through transformative and holistic education which is God-Centered Education. Many examples can be asserted that God bless Indonesian children and leads to transformation, spiritual growth, and character strengthening.

As witnessed by children from Papua who are attending Lentera Harapan Toraja School, the teachers feel so touching because of their honesty. Those children found wallet on the street and tried to return the wallet to the owner through the teachers and principal. When the owner wanted to give a token of gratitude, the children suggested that the token of gratitude should be given to church. We express our gratitude that our schools, teachers, and YPPH Lecturers have been used by God to be blessings.

We are also grateful for transformative and holistic model of Christian education, which is “Christ Centered”, is starting to be known and emulated in several places. However, we realize that we will keep facing challenges. We, hence, must root in Christ and build up in Christ, so that no matter the current secularization we encounter, we will still be firm and persistent in regard to the vision of being blessings to the nation.

Happy serving -being blessings through Christ-Centered Education.

Signing of UPH and PMIIC Cooperation Agreement

On October 2, 2015, at Central Park Jakarta, the signing of cooperation agreement between Universitas Pelita Harapan (UPH) and Project Management Institute Indonesia Chapter (PMIIC) of organizing profession management project activity was held. PMIIC is a global non-profit professional institute founded by the Project Manager to take an active participation in national development through professional management and cooperation alongside educational institutions.

The aim of this collaboration, according to Budi Legowo, VP for Marketing, External Relation and Business Development UPH, is an attempt to improve and enhance the quality of education at UPH. The cooperation with PMIIC includes adoption of best practices Project Management Institute (PMI), such as PMBOK (Project Management Body of Knowledge) and framework PMI and the other PMI framework into the curriculum and syllabus related subjects in UPH, especially Faculty of Computer Science and Faculty of Science and Technology.

According to Arisman Indrawan, SH, MT, PMP, President of PMIIC, PMBOK and certification from PMI, such as PMP and CAPM, are acknowledged as global projects management standards and up to now there are 665 thousands PMP certified people worldwide. Unfortunately in Indonesia, there are simply 563 certified people. According to him, the knowledge is important for it is one of things CEO need in this world, which is 'ability to get things done' and this project management have already proven to be able to complete any project.

In addition, Prof. Manlian A. Ronald Simanjuntak, Dean of FaST and Head Master of Civil Engineering UPH mentioned, "We will seek UPH-PMIIC Cooperation and enhance it in the curriculum of MTS UPH by presenting the teachers of PMIIC, thereby the level of competence and certification of graduates of MTS UPH will be increasing

The signatories were represented by Prof. Dr. Manlian Ronald A. Simanjuntak, ST., MT., Dean of Faculty of Science and Technology (FaST) as a representative of UPH and by Arisman Indrawan, SH., MT., PMP., President of PMIIC as well as the representative of PMIIC and witnessed by Budi Legowo, VP for Marketing, External Relations and Business Development, Hendra Achmadi, S.Kom, M.M, M.Acc, Director of Center of Applied Research in Enterprise System (C.A.R.E.S) UPH, dan Sepriyany Linta, MM, PMP, VP Education PMIIC.

OPINION

Ambassador Prof. Makarim Wibisono, Ph.D.

Competency of International Relation required to addressing the changes in international system

“Back then people regard to International Relation (IR) that it simply relates to international politics and has nothing to do with economic field. However, the world has changed. There are three factors which urge the world change, namely regulation of technology, liberalization of world trade, and integration of the form of the union to the international society. The changes in situation turn international system from bipolar system into multipolar system.

Bipolar system focuses on political security meanwhile, multipolar system focuses on economy. System changes cause the world to be interlinkage and interdependence. The characteristic of International Relation alters as well. As example, when people start to address the financial crisis, it is impossible to resolve without relating it to political system, management system, and the cultural system. In this context, the parties involved in determining the international regulation increase, including the state representative, world organization, NGO until the media representative. Thus, currently negotiation and diplomacy must involve many parties. In order to anticipate the impact and challenge of globalization and liberalization, there are three ways to be implemented: identifying factors that lead the changes, formulating the policy to respond to such changes and implement the policy. Hence, people who have competency in the scope of international issues are required.

Greta Bunawan

Alumni of Psychology 2005, Founder of Electronic Locker, 'PopBox'

Greta Gunawan professed that the psychology knowledge she acquired during her study in UPH is really helpful in running business. The psychology is applicable to all fields and equips her in dealing with people. Here is the inspirational story she shares:

"Psychology helps me to grasp people, get sympathetic to colleague, and easily adapt to the surroundings. The knowledge and working experience in promotion field and exhibition open up her perspective to take business opportunity that will be booming in the future, such as e-commerce. Finding business opportunity is not about personal benefit but it is merely based on the desire to help others. I get this principle thorough experience of doing community service while studying at UPH, that I learn how to be influential. The biggest obstacle in the development of e-commerce business in Indonesia is the infrastructure. The unprepared infrastructure to produce Bottle Neck is what makes it ineffective and inefficient. Therefore, I give Electronic Locker Popbox as the solution. Electronic Locker provides logistic service such as pick-up point in which consumers can pick up the online shopping goods. For merchant of e-commerce, this feature can make the delivery faster, efficient, safe, and low cost. The consumers will easily pick up the goods from the nearest location anytime along with guaranteed security. For running this business, the skill of dealing with people truly assists me to have business partner, expand network, and educate people.

UPH Held 3rd series of Alumni Business Network

Participants of Alumni Business Network "Effective Organization & Effective Operation"

As an attempt to provide networking for UPH alumni, Alumni Center UPH, again, held the 3rd series of Alumni Business Network for all the business start-up with theme of "Effective Organizations & Efficient Operation" on October 2, 2015, at Penang Bistro Central Park Mall, Jakarta. Alumni Business Network was set into dinner event by presenting two guest speakers: Herry Suwandy, President Director of Hotel 88, Marvin Joseph Kalibonso, Startup Leader & Distribution Center Manager, Alumni of Civil Engineering UPH 2002 and Budi Legowo, Vice President for External Cooperation and Business Development UPH. Ryan Maneka Hinze, Managing Director of PT. Santorian Royal Mayestika, Alumni of Management UPH 2007, attended as the moderator.

In creating 'Effective Organizations' and 'Efficient Operation, according to Herry Suwandy who has experienced more than 12 years in hospitality industry, enacted that market is an important aspect. Next, Marvin Joseph, who has been working in P&G Company, enhanced that working experience in well-established-company is beneficial as the company has established the system well and can be implemented in newly business start-up. According to Marvin, thing to consider of 'Effective Organizations' and 'Efficient Operation' is the company system that encompasses technology, the material used to run business, and organizational behavior.

From the professional insight, Budi Legowo connected the 'Effective' term with 'Output' and 'Efficient' along with the 'Input'.

Thus, the Effective Organizations implies that we connect the organization with output accession, output means revenue rather than cost, the thing is we maximize the maximum output. Meanwhile, efficient in regard with input, it is how we manage the input as economical as we can in order to reach the goal. We, therefore, need to set out the output first and then think of how manage the input." said Budi.

The discussion was truly active form both the speakers and each alumni. Several testimonials were given by the participants and one of those was Esther, Alumni of Hospitality UPH 2008, who is currently running her own business. "This was my first time for attending Alumni Business Network. The materials were so suitable for me who has started my own business. In my opinion, this kind of alumni event is very good as it is very important to establish connection, in addition, we can know about development of UPH and get the updates from fellow alumni." Esther said.

The event was attended by around 30 UPH alumni from different departments. Business start-up will be held on November 27, 2015, in Shang Palace Restaurant, Shangri-La Hotel Jakarta. The topic discussion is "Financing and Funding" and presenting two guest speakers, Daniel Darmawan, Sub Div Head of Commercial Business & SME BCA and Benjamin Tnoon, Country Director Fundnel Limited.
